DOUGLAS RAE, Richard S. Ely Professor Emeritus of Management

Professor Rae came to Yale in 1967 as a junior faculty member in the political science department. He has had a distinguished career in research on political and economic systems. Rae is an elected fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, a former Guggenheim fellow, a one-time fellow of Stanford’s Center for Advanced Study in the Behavioral Sciences, and a fellow of the Netherlands Institute for Advanced Study. In the late 1980s, Rae was chairperson of the political science department.

Since 1991 he has also been a faculty member in Yale’s School of Management. He served as Chief Administrative Officer of New Haven city government in the early 90s, and authored City: Urbanism and Its End, using New Haven as a main case study. He is currently writing a book on American capitalism. That book’s primary theses form his 2019 Stimson Lectures.

CAPITALISM: KNOWLEDGE DRIVES WEALTH

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 22
What the American Founders Got Wrong

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 23
When Markets Force Learning: America in the 19th Century

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 24
America’s Unequal Capitalist Republic

4:30 PM
Henry R. Luce Hall Auditorium
34 Hillhouse Avenue

Yale MacMillan Center