

Yale Fox International Fellowship
REUNION
May 8 – May 10 • New Haven, Connecticut 2023

April 10, 2023

Dear Fox Family, Fellows, Faculty, and Friends,

I look forward to this reunion with particular anticipation as we will be able to welcome several fellows onto campus for the first time. These fellows were prevented from traveling to New Haven with the rest of their cohort because of the impossible logistics of some international travel during COVID-19. I am so glad to be able to extend a hearty and much belated warm welcome to these students -- and to all of the former fellows, family and faculty who have done so much to support and engage with the fellowship over the years. Welcome to New Haven!

Covid has rapidly fading from popular consciousness but the lessons about the importance of international coordination should persist. Global coordination is key to addressing the climate crisis, reducing violence, increasing the protection of human rights, addressing injustice and oppression, and mitigating the dangers of possible future pandemics.

For the reunion proceedings we have brought together a terrific group of former fellows to address the special quality of global coordination. Transnational cooperation and coordination pose distinctive challenges because of the scale of global coordination efforts. Distance, borders, cultural heterogeneity, political fragmentation, and rising nationalist movements are but few of the many factors that create a unique macro-context for global problems. In these proceedings, we will be focusing on the translation of problems of coordination and cooperation into a global setting and the particularity of the challenges faced by the global community.

Global coordination is special, and indeed I feel that every day as I experience the truly remarkable community created by our fellows. Very little can surpass the incredible intellectual, cultural, and social benefits of cross-cultural exchange. Thank you all for being a part of this wonderful community!

Warmly,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "Emily Erikson". The signature is fluid and cursive, with a large loop at the end.

Emily Erikson
Joseph C. Fox Director
Fox International Fellowships
Professor of Sociology and School of Management

April 6, 2023

Dear Fox Fellows, Family, and Friends:

The Fox International Fellowship Program is a treasured part of Yale and the MacMillan Center. Since 1989, Fox Fellows have travelled to and from Yale's 21 partner universities around the world, building new intellectual and personal connections, and breaking down many barriers along the way.

Yale is enormously grateful to the late Mr. Joseph Fox '38 and his wife Alison for creating the Fox Fellowship, and to the Fox Family for their continued engagement with and support of the program. The Fox family can delight, as we do, in the transformative effect of the Fox fellowship on the careers and lives of the Fox Fellows, and the high impact of the Fellowship on our partner universities.

The Fox International Fellowship Program has benefitted enormously through the years from excellent faculty and staff leadership. Professor Emily Erikson, the Joseph C. Fox Director of the Fox International Fellowship, has continued the strong, strategic, and empathetic leadership begun by her predecessors Professors Julia Adams and Ben Cashore. Assistant Director Julia Muravnik's hard work, organizational skills and deep concern for our fellows has solved many a problem over the years and made our Fellows' lives better in countless practical ways. Fellowship Coordinator Gina Amico has been such a terrific recent addition to the team that we are already wondering how we managed without her! And Stephane D. Andrade's weekly seminar throughout the year provides a focal point and meeting place for our fellows, as well as mentorship and advice for our fellows as they think about their time at Yale, and beyond. Most of all, of course, we need to thank the fellows for their hard work and engagement with the program and each other over the years.

To all these people, many thanks!

I look forward to attending the Fox Reunion Conference opening and meeting everyone there to celebrate the program, its fellows, and their achievements!

Sincerely,

Steven I. Wilkinson
Nilekani Professor of India and South Asian Studies
Henry R. Luce Director, MacMillan Center
Vice Provost for Global Strategy

AGENDA

MONDAY, MAY 8

5:30 - 6:30pm

Fox Fellows Arrival to Courtyard by Marriott New Haven at Yale, 30 Whalley Avenue, New Haven, CT, USA

Bus Shuttle to Divinity School

6:00 - 10:00pm

Welcome Dinner

Old Refectory at the Divinity School, 409 Prospect St, New Haven, CT 06511

Opening remarks by Rohini Pande

"When The Tide Turns: Poverty, Inequality and Power"

9:45 - 11:00pm

Bus Shuttle to the hotel

TUESDAY, MAY 9

8:15 - 9:15am

Maurice R. Greenberg Conference Center, 391 Prospect St, New Haven, CT 06511

Bus Shuttle to Conference Center

8:30 - 9:30am

Breakfast

FOX FELLOWSHIP REUNION CONFERENCE

"Coordinating Global Communities"

9:30 - 10:30 pm

PANEL 1: GLOBAL STANDARDS AND MEASUREMENT

President: Valentina Rozo-Angel, 2022-23 Fox Fellow From Universidad de San Andrés

Tsendsuren Batsuuri, ET Consultant,

World Bank,

Comparing mitigation efforts under demographic and institutional asymmetry

Gerardo Sánchez Nateras, Visiting Researcher, Centro de

Investigación y Docencia Económicas,

Computers, documents, and missing people: building tools and methods to address massive human rights violations

Kai Striebinger, Group Leader, Ministry for Work, Social Affairs, and Integration,

Global Goals for everyone? The SDGs and their implementation in the Global North

10:30 - 10:45am

Break

10:45 -11:45	PANEL 2: DECENTRALIZED COORDINATION Presider: Fakhriddho Susilo, 2022-23 Fox Fellow From the Australian National University Kerem Morgul, Visiting Assistant Professor, Hamilton College, Beyond the Inclusion-Exclusion Dichotomy in Populism Studies: Erdoğan’s Muslim Nationalist Discourse on Syrian Refugees Nathan Wiltshire, 2022-23 Fox Fellow From Australian National University, Solidarity as decentralized coordination; a case of community revival in Japan Elkanah Babatunde, Senior Strategic Associate, Government of Manitoba, Canada, A Case for Bilateral Agreements		Jory Smallerberg, Master’s student in the Department of Political Science at the University of British Columbia Global Coordination of Support for Asylum Seekers: The Case of the G20 Isao Sakaguchi, Professor, Gakushuin University Governance Deficit of Global Meta-governing Schemes: The Case Study of GSSI’s Recognition of MEL Japan
	Remarks: President Salovey	3:15 - 3:30pm	Break
11:45 -12:00pm	Lunch	3:30 – 4:30pm	PANEL 5: GLOBAL RESPONSES TO COVID Presider: Rachael Hansen-Garshong, 2022-23 Fox Fellow From University of Ghana Andrey Kushlin, Co-Chair, EndPandemics, Ending pandemics together. One health solutions
12:00 - 1:00pm			Isaac Chinyoka, Research Fellow, University of Denver, Global social policy responses to COVID-19: challenges and opportunities
1:00 – 2:00pm	PANEL 3: Meso-level coordination Presider: Pangyue Cheng, 2022-23 Fox Fellow From National University of Singapore Ulrich Volz, Professor of Economics and Director of the Centre for Sustainable Finance, SOAS, University of London, Climate-proofing Public Finances and Policies Through Targeted Capacity Building and International Collaboration Between Universities João Marcos Mott Pavanelli Institutional response to energy, bad outcomes Nihit Goyal, Assistant Professor, TU Delft, Netherlands Does membership in transnational municipal networks lead to climate change mitigation? The case of the C40 cities initiative.	4:30-5:15 pm	Closing remarks by Julian Go “ The Presence of Imperial Past: Assessing the Legacies of Empire ”
	Break	5:00 - 6:00pm	Cocktail Hour
2:00 -2:15pm		6:00 - 9:00pm	Closing Dinner
2:15 – 3:15pm	PANEL 4: CENTRALIZED COORDINATION Presider: Bhavya Gupta, 2022-23 Fox Fellow From the National University of Singapore Singumbe Muyeba, Assistant Professor, Josef Korbel School of International Studies, University of Denver, Global Coordination of Foreign Aid for Slum Upgrading: Is there need for World Bank Reform?	9:00 - 10:00pm	Bus Shuttle to the hotel
		WEDNESDAY, MAY 10	Yale Treasures Tours (Registration will open in late April) Hotel check-out by 11am
		10:30am	Tour of Beinecke Rare Books and Manuscripts Library
		11:30am	Tour of Yale University Art Gallery
		1:30pm	Local Farm Store: Yogurts, ice cream, cheese tasting

KEYNOTE SPEAKERS

ROHINI PANDE

Henry J. Heinz II Professor of Economics and Director, Economic Growth Center
https://economics.yale.edu/people/rohini-pande

Rohini Pande is the Henry J. Heinz II Professor of Economics, Director of the Economic Growth Center, and Director of Inclusion Economics at Yale University. She is a co-editor of American Economic Review: Insights. Pande's research is largely focused on how formal and informal institutions shape power relationships and patterns of economic and political advantage in society, particularly in developing countries. She is interested in the role of public policy in providing the poor and disadvantaged political and economic power, and how notions of economic justice and human rights can help justify and enable such change.

JULIAN GO

Professor of Sociology Faculty Affiliate, Center for the Study of Race, Politics & Culture and the Committee on International Relations
University of Chicago [https://sociology.uchicago.
edu/directory/julian-go](https://sociology.uchicago.edu/directory/julian-go)

Julian Go is Professor of Sociology and Faculty Affiliate of the Center for the Study of Race, Politics & Culture and the Committee on International Relations at the University of Chicago. His research explores the social logics, forms and impact of empires and colonialism; postcolonial/decolonial thought and related questions of social theory, epistemology, and knowledge; and global historical sociology. Besides numerous articles and chapters, his books include American Empire and the Politics of Meaning (Duke 2008), Patterns of Empire: the British and American Empires, 1688 to Present (Cambridge 2011), Postcolonial Thought and Social Theory (Oxford 2016) and the forthcoming Policing Empires: Militarization, Race and the Imperial Boomerang in Britain and the US (Oxford, 2023). His scholarship has won prizes from the American Sociological Association, the Eastern Sociological Society, the American Political Science Association, and the International Studies Association, among other institutions. He is the winner of the Lewis A. Coser Award for Theoretical Agenda Setting in Sociology given by the American Sociological Association. In 2021-2022, he served as the President of the Social Science History Association.

Anisimova Ksenia

ks.v.anisimova@gmail.com
2015-2016 Moscow State University
Ph.D. Researcher, Utrecht University

Anisimova is a PhD researcher at the Copernicus Institute of Sustainable Development, Utrecht University (The Netherlands). With an interdisciplinary background in sustainable development, public policy and management, Ksenia's interests center on contentious policymaking in the climate governance domain. In her current work, Ksenia focuses on analyzing patterns of climate policy responses across OECD countries. Ultimately, this research will shed light on the interactions between policy and society in the context of contentious climate politics and contribute to new forms of socially robust climate policy.

Babatunde, Elkanah

elkanah.babs@gmail.com
2018-2019 University of Cape Town
Senior Strategic Associate, Government of Manitoba, Canada.

Dr. Elkanah Babatunde currently works as a Senior Strategic Associate with the Government of Manitoba where he leads and directs the research and development of policies and legislation for economic development and green transformation opportunities in Manitoba. Dr Babatunde's experience and expertise spans across the field of public international law, climate justice, and human rights. He has worked with governments, NGOs and think tanks across Africa and North America. He was a Fox fellow in the 2018/2019 session and worked with Professor Douglas Kysar at the Yale Law School. When he is not reading, writing, or researching on climate justice and economic development, Dr Babatunde can be found at his local YMCA playing pickle-ball or lifting some weights.

Batsuuri, Tsendsuren

tsendsurenb@gmail.com
2021- 2022 From the Australian National University
ET Consultant, World Bank

Tsendsuren Batsuuri, a Fox-Zucker International Fellowship recipient in 2021, earned her Ph.D. in economics from the Australian National University, focusing on the macroeconomics of demographic transitions and their environmental impacts, as well as the economics of climate change. She has 9+ years of professional and research experience, including work for the government, a research institute, and international organizations assessing the economic impact of climate change and infrastructure development. Currently, she works as an extended-term consultant economist at the World Bank, focusing on the macro-criticality of climate change. In her free time, Tsendsuren enjoys reading books and going on hikes with her friends and family.

Benavides Reverditto, Ximena

ximena.benavides@yale.edu 2021-2022 To University of British Columbia
Lecturer and Postdoctoral Associate at Yale Political Science EP&E / ISPS

Ximena Benavides is a Lecturer and Postdoctoral Associate at the Ethics, Politics & Economics Program and at the Department Political Science at Yale University. She is also a Yale Institute of Global Health Affiliated Faculty and Resident Fellow of Yale Law School's Information Society Project. Framed at the intersection of law, public policy, and political economy, she researches access to healthy sustainable governance of regulatory systems and healthcare organizations integrating equity and ethics. Particularly, she focuses on access to medicines, sustainable biomedical innovation, and conflicts of interest in healthcare governance in the U.S. and Latin America. Currently, she is working on the CIHR-PHAC Infectious Disease Innovation Governance project at the Health Law Institute of Dalhousie University, Schulich School of Law.

Benedykcinski, Michal

michal.benedykcinski@gmail.com
2009-2010 To Free University Berlin & Moscow State University
SVP Ventures, Arca Funds

Michal is Senior Vice President at Arca, an investment firm offering institutional caliber products in the digital assets space. Michal leads sourcing, due diligence, and deal execution for Arca's early-stage venture fund Endeavor. In addition to his portfolio work with founders, Michal guides thematic research into web 3.0 infrastructure opportunities. He has over 10 years of experience in financial services, with previous roles in M&A advisory and private equity. Michal was Director of Business Development at Hedera Hashgraph, where he led the financial services vertical and oversaw partnerships with multinationals and startups building on top of the enterprise-grade public network. Prior to that, he led corporate development for offshore digital assets exchange. Michal began his career in London, focusing on M&A in infrastructure and telecom at Evercore and direct investing with 3i Group. Michal holds an MBA from Wharton, MA from UPenn, and a BA from Yale.

Budovalcev, Stevan Nicholas

stevanrnb@gmail.com
2001-2002 To Free University Berlin
Attorney, Stroock & Stroock & Lavan LLP

Stevan is an attorney specializing in financing transactions of all types. He was previously the founder of assembly, a technology company developing immersive online-offline hybrid experiences.

Bulatova, Elena

abulatova@gmail.com
2007-2008 From Moscow State University
Artist/CEO

Elena Bulatova is an internationally celebrated artist, originally from Russia, is a unique and versatile artist who works in a variety of mediums, while always maintaining her colorful aesthetic and positive meaning. Bulatova's artistic career catapulted in California putting her abstract paintings and her famous "Sweet Life" sculptures, Lollipops and Popsicles, into important private and public collections around the globe. One of Bulatova's newest series of works is a collection of artwork that features positive statements with a universal message, called Affirmative Mirrors. Bulatova continues to grow in stardom as her work appears in Hollywood film and television. Bulatova has received several prestigious awards including "Family and Visitor Attraction Award" - two years in a row by LUX Life Magazine and LUX Life Magazine title of "Fine Art Gallery of the Year" for 2020.

Bustamante, Andrés

andres.bustamante@yale.edu
2021-2022 To El Colegio de México
PhD Candidate, Yale University

Andrés Bustamante Agudelo is a PhD candidate in Latin American History at Yale. His dissertation is a social and legal history of archaeology in nineteenth and twentieth century Mexico, which examines the relationship between the subterranean project of archaeology and the territorial politics of state formation. At Yale, he is a graduate affiliate of Berkeley College and former co-coordinator of the Latin American Studies Working Group and the Latin American History Speaker Series.

Liwei, Cai

cailiwei@hotmail.com
1998-1999 From Fudan University
Senior Partner, Shanghai Hanglung Law Offices

Mr. Liwei Cai is a licensed PRC attorney, and also the only Chinese citizen who is registered as a foreign attorney in the Republic of Poland. He is an expert in foreign direct investment and related dispute resolution, and also an active advocate of mutual understanding and cooperation between China and Poland. He was the only Chinese invited to participate in KRYNICA FORUM 2022, the center of dialogue and debate on the security, economy, and future of Poland and CEE, and to deliver a speech at a high level panel discussion entitled: “EU-Ukraine Hydrocarbon Bridge Architecture as a Transition to Sustainable Future”.

Cani, Julia

Julia.cani@yale.edu
2022-2023 From University of São Paulo

Julia Wand Del-Rey Cani is a Ph.D. Candidate in Law at the University of Sao Paulo. Her research focuses on latest decision-making practices that seek to overcome inconsistencies within different models of judicial review. In particular, interests her the distinction between “thesis” and “case” as different focal points for each decision, which enables a broader scope of the constitutional adjudication process. Through a comparative analysis of the decision-making process of the United States Supreme Court, the objective is approaching a possible institutional change. Julia obtained the Master’s Degree in Law at the Federal University of Rio de Janeiro where she also taught Legal Theory and the Bachelor of Laws from the Pontifical Catholic University of Rio de Janeiro. In 2020, she became a member of the research cluster Constitution, Politics & Institutions at the University of Sao Paulo. Previously, she worked as a Research Assistant analyzing decisions of the Brazilian Supreme Court.

Begbie, Ceclin

ceclin.begbie@yale.edu
2022-2023 From University of Cape Town

Ceclin Begbie is a Masters in Public Health candidate at the School of Public Health at the University of Cape Town (UCT), and a Masters in Industrial Sociology graduate (UCT). Her academic qualifications are largely in the social and behavioral sciences domain with an overlap into business studies which includes a Honors degree in Organizational/Industrial Psychology specializing in Change management, and a Bachelor of Social Sciences degree majoring in Gender Studies, Organizational Psychology, & Industrial Sociology. She obtained a Diploma in Business Management & Entrepreneurship, and completed various short courses during her working career in academic, corporate, and non-profit organizations. Ceclin enjoys analyzing and understanding human behavior, with particular interest in complex social, cultural, and gender dynamics, and organizational problem solving.

Cervantes, Maria

maria.cervantes@yale.edu
2022-2023 From the University of British Columbia

Maria Esther Cervantes has a degree in International Relations from Tecnológico de Monterrey, Mexico and a Master of Arts in Geography from the University of British Columbia in Vancouver, Canada. She is currently a second year Ph.D. in Geography student at the University of British Columbia. Her dissertation focuses on the ways in which immigration policies and education impact the choices of highly skilled migrants throughout their lives, shaping their understandings of citizenship and identity. This project contributes to the study of class and educational achievements in immigration and the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic in the future of work. Maria Esther is a Researcher at the Latin American Open Data Initiative (Uruguay) where she has published several policy reports and articles related to migration, artificial intelligence, gender and data for development.

Chen, Xu

lsheng1960@gmail.com
2012-2013 From Fudan University

Ph.D of Procedure Law(International Law) Fudan University School of Law 2012-2013, Visiting Scholar of Yale University (Fox Fellow) MacMillan Center 2015-2016, Visiting Scholar of Canterbury University Antiarctic Research Center of New Zealand, Post-graduate certificate of Antiarctic Governance.

Cheng, Pangyue

pangyue.cheng@yale.edu
2022-2023 From National University of Singapore
Pangyue Cheng is a Ph.D. candidate in the faculty of law at the National University of Singapore (NUS).

She received her bachelor’s degree from Beijing Normal University (BNU) and master’s degree from the NUS, specializing in Corporate and Financial Services Law. She is currently a fox fellow at Yale University. Her research project intends to investigate the stewardship of institutional investors and listed companies in relation to environmental, social, and governance (ESG) issues, highlighting the stewardship role played by market participants in achieving China’s sustainability ambitions. She aims to develop a legal framework for ESG stewardship that promotes policy innovation designed to foster sustainable development. She holds a research assistant position at the NUS, where she conducts research on AI and financial market legal issues in China and the United States. Prior to commencing her doctoral research, she worked as a lawyer specializing in commercial disputes at a Beijing law firm and as a legal counsel engaged in due diligence at a listed AI company.

Chinyoka, Isaac

isacchiny@gmail.com
2016-2017 From University of Cape Town
Research Fellow, University of Denver

Isaac Chinyoka is a Research Fellow at the Institute of Comparative and Regional Studies, University of Denver. He is a former Postdoctoral Research Fellow, DST/NRF South African Chair on Welfare and Social Development, Centre for Social Development for Africa, University of Johannesburg. His interests include comparative public policy, social protection, the political economy of poverty alleviation, family policy, health and disaster management, social development and welfare, and development economics in Africa, the Caribbean, the United States, and the United Kingdom.

Clemente, Jacob

jacob.a.clemente97@gmail.com
2019-2020 To Moscow State University
Journalist, Charter

Jacob spent the 2019-2020 academic year at Moscow State University, where he conducted research on the Narodniki and the Russian famine of 1891-1892. After returning to the U.S., he worked for historian Chris Miller at Tufts University as a research assistant on a variety of projects, including two books: 'We Shall Be Masters' and 'Chip War.' Jacob has spent the past two years working in journalism, first as a researcher and producer at Freakonomics Radio and now as a journalist for Charter, where he writes about the future of work. He is also a co-founder and writer of a weekly history newsletter called WeekInTime.

Collings-Wells, Sam

sam.collings-wells@yale.edu
2022-2023 From Cambridge University

Sam Collings-Wells is a Ph.D. candidate in History at the University of Cambridge. His research explores the transformation of American liberalism after the 1960s, with a particular focus on the work of philanthropy and nonprofit sector. Prior to undertaking his Ph.D., he received both his Bachelors (Double Starred First) and Masters (Distinction) at the University of Cambridge. His work has appeared in the Journal of Urban History, the Journal of Global History, The International History Review, as well as in The Washington Post and History Today.

Eastman, Michael

michael.eastman@aya.yale.edu
2007-2008 From University of Cape Town
Writer

Michael Eastman was a Fox Fellow at Yale in 2007-2008 from the University of Cape Town. After the Fellowship, Michael returned to South Africa, where he clerked for the Chief Justice of South Africa at the Constitutional Court, the nation's apex court. Thereafter, he was a corporate and appellate litigation lawyer in Johannesburg, before building a large human rights practice. He later served as senior policy advisor in the South African government. Alongside his legal career he led four non-profit organizations devoted to increasing access to education in Africa. He returned to Yale to earn a graduate degree in Global Affairs and later immigrated to the United States. He lives in California, where he is writing a trilogy of novels that draw on his time as a human rights lawyer.

Eenmaa, Helen

helen.eenmaa@ut.ee and helen.eenmaa@gmail.com
2007-2008 To Moscow State University
Researcher, University of Tartu School of Law, Estonia

Helen Eenmaa holds an LL.M. and a J.S.D. from Yale Law School. After graduating from Yale in 2013, she joined the faculty of the School of Law of the University of Tartu, Estonia, and founded the Information Technology Law Research and Study Programme. In 2018, she was elected a Member of the Estonian Young Academy of Sciences, and in 2020 to lead it as a Vice President. In 2022, she was elected a Member of AcademiaNet led by the Swiss National Science Foundation, and the board of the European Young Academies Science Advice Structure providing science advice to the European Commission. She has published in general law journals (European Journal of Risk Regulation, World Comparative Law), specialized technology law journals (Computer Law and Security Review, Stanford Journal for Blockchain Law and Policy), general science journals (Scientific Data, Akadeemia), and in legal philosophy (Canadian Journal of Law and Jurisprudence). Research interests: legal and moral philosophy, law and economics, private law theory, technology law, science and technology studies.

Khorbaladze, Eka

eka.khorbaladze@yale.edu
2021-2022, 2022-2023 From Moscow State University

Eka Khorbaladze is Fox International Fellow 2021-2023, visiting from Moscow State University. Her major is Political Science, in particular, International Relations. Her thesis examines modern trans-regional integration processes, such as China's BRI, Eurasian integration, and the Indo-Pacific strategy. Besides academic direction she is actively engaged in different programs which are connected with youth activities and volunteering. She is Country Leader Russia at Global Law Thinkers Society, expert at World Impact Alliance and representative of Russia at Global Youth Parliament. The Fox Fellowship, which she considers to be a tool of the "second track" of diplomacy, has helped her to build her academic career and provided her with new inspiration for her goal of becoming a diplomat.

Zubova, Ekaterina

ekaterina.zubova@yale.edu
2021-2022, 2022-2023 from Moscow State University

Ekaterina Zubova has been studying at Lomonosov Moscow State University since 2013. In 2017, she received a Bachelor's degree with honors in Political Science. In 2019, she enrolled in the Faculty of Economics, where she graduated with honors. Her Master Thesis, "The impact of political institutions on sovereign debt risks," won first prize in a competition of Master's Theses in her faculty. In the same year, she won a competition for young teachers at the Department of Economics. She is currently a Ph.D. student in the Demography specialty in the Department of Economics. In addition, she was the captain of the Lomonosov Moscow State University team on Econometrics for the Econometric Games (an International Olympiad). In 2020-2021, she worked as the Executive Director of the Association of Russian Economic Think Tanks, a non-profit organization which brings together 36 Russian economic think tanks from Moscow, Saint-Petersburg, Perm, Ekaterinburg, and Vladivostok.

Galloway, Morgan

morgan.galloway@yale.edu
2019-2020 To El Colegio de México

Goyal, Nihit

nihit.goyal@tudelft.nl
2018-2019 From National University of Singapore
Assistant Professor, TU Delft, Netherlands

I am an Assistant Professor of Policy Innovation at the faculty of Technology, Policy and Management. I have a PhD in Public Policy from the Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy, National University of Singapore. Previously, I was a software engineer at Philips (2006-10), a research scientist at the Center for Study of Science, Technology and Policy (2012-15), and a postdoctoral fellow at the Yale-NUS College (2019-20). I focus on understanding, explaining, and promoting policy innovation in sociotechnical systems in order to catalyze transitions to a more sustainable future. My work sheds light on policy innovation through: (i) an interdisciplinary approach synthesizing research in policy studies with behavioral studies, international relations, and science & technology studies; (ii) the use of multiple – and mixed – methods spanning computational text analysis, econometrics, and qualitative techniques; and (iii) an application to novel cases with high policy relevance, such as those in the Global South. I study the policy process, policy design, and policy outcomes empirically, primarily in the context of the sustainable energy transition.

Guest, Rupert

rupert.guest@googlemail.com

2009-2010 From Cambridge University

After finishing the Fox Fellowship in 2009, Rupert started the Barclays Graduate programme working on the Foreign Exchange Desk. He has held a variety of positions within the Bank, specializing in FX Derivatives for Hedge Funds. In 2018, Rupert moved with his wife to run the Desk in New York. His son - George Hudson - was born at Mount Sinai West in 2021. Rupert holds a BSc (Hons) in Geography and Economics from the L.S.E. and an MPhil in International Relations from the University of Cambridge.

Gupta, Bhavya

bhavya.gupta@yale.edu

2022-2023 From National University of Singapore

Bhavya Gupta is a PhD Candidate at the Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy, National University of Singapore. She holds a bachelor's degree in economics from Shri Ram College of Commerce, University of Delhi, and a master's degree in international relations from the London School of Economics. Her current research focuses on climate change as a source of systemic risk to financial stability, and the role of central banks and financial supervisors as policy actors in mitigating its adverse impacts. More broadly, she is interested in issues at the intersection of economics, international political economy, and public policy, such as the political economy of global financial and monetary systems, and the political economy of central banking. Before enrolling for a PhD, she was a Visiting Research Fellow at the Crawford School of Public Policy in the Australian National University. She also has brief prior work experience in both the government and private sectors in India. She worked as an intern in the Americas Division of the Ministry of External Affairs, and in the private sector, was a Country Analyst at the Economist Intelligence Unit.

Hansen-Garshong, Rachael

rachael.hansen-garshong@yale.edu

2022-2023 From University of Ghana

Rachael Hansen-Garshong is a licensed I/O psychologist, a PhD candidate and a current Yale Fox Fellow. Her research focuses on exploring the experiences of well-being within entrepreneurial contexts and its influence on the entrepreneurial process and outcomes. She uses an interpretative phenomenological analytical approach. Rachael is also a volunteer trainer with WomanRising Africa, where she is involved in supporting and raising resilient women entrepreneurs within the Sub-region. She was instrumental in a nationwide research on the psychological consequences of the financial sector clean-up by the central bank which led to massive job losses. Her career focus is to promote well-being as a core part of the entrepreneurial process as a means of empowering women and alleviating poverty. Rachael received the Carnegie Corporation of New York grant through the Building African Next Generation of Academics (BANGA) project for her doctoral research. Rachael recently published a chapter in the African Leadership of the 21st Century book. She is a member of the Society of Industrial and Organizational Psychologists (SIOP).

Hollingdale, Hazel

hazelhollingdale@gmail.com

2018-2019 From University of British Columbia

Since completing her Ph.D. in Sociology in 2020, Hazel has continued to combine her passions for equity research and creating and grounding policy in culturally relevant ways. In 2020, she started a research firm, Bespoke Insights, that specializes in advising organizations, government, and community groups on equity policy and community-based and mixed-methods research. Most of her current work is with communities who face high levels of marginalization and vulnerabilities, providing high-quality research to help bring about culturally-attuned and evidence-based policy around harm reduction and housing. Since 2021 she has also held a research advisor position at the Social Innovation Lab at Employment and Social Development Canada, the federal department responsible for social programs and labour markets.

Jacobsen, Dennis

dennis.jacobsen@yale.edu

2019-2020 From Copenhagen Business School

PhD Student, Yale School of Management

Dennis Jacobsen is a PhD student in Organizational Behavior at the School of Management at Yale University. His primary research interests focus on the dynamics of interpersonal relationships as they evolve over time. Before joining Yale, Dennis spent two years as a PhD Fellow at the Copenhagen Business School, where he also obtained his bachelor's and master's degrees in Economics and Business Administration.

Kazaryan, Ashkhen

a.v.kazaryan@gmail.com

2013-2014 From Moscow State University

Senior Fellow, Free Speech & Peace, Stand Together

Ashkhen Kazaryan is a tech policy expert. She manages and develops policy projects on free speech, content moderation, surveillance reform and the intersection of constitutional rights and technology. Currently she is Senior Fellow, Free Speech & Peace at Stand Together. Prior to that she was Content Policy Manager on the Content Regulation team at Meta, covering North and Latin America, and was also its policy lead on Section 230. Before that she was the Director of civil liberties at TechFreedom from July 2016 till November 2020. At TechFreedom she also managed outreach and coalition building for the organization and hosted The Tech Policy Podcast. Ashkhen is regularly featured as an expert commentator in news outlets across television, radio, podcasts, and print and digital publications including CNBC, BBC, FOX DC, Newsy, Politico, Axios, The Information, Protocol, The Washington Examiner and many others.

Klingler, Désirée

desiree.klingler@yale.edu

2020-2021 To Copenhagen Business School

Désirée Klingler is a PhD candidate at the University of St. Gallen and research fellow at Yale Law School. Her research focus is on the law and economics of administrative law (public procurement and antitrust law) and international public law, with a focus on trade and environmental law. She is a lecturer at the University of Hamburg, Institute of Law and Economics since 2021. Désirée is an admitted lawyer in Switzerland and New York, and a senior expert on sustainable public private partnerships at the UN Economic Commission for Europe (UNECE), writing the 2023 guide on the UN Sustainable development goals (SDGs).

Kim, Young-Geun

ikimyg@gmail.com

1999-2000 From University of Tokyo

Professor, Korea University

Kim, Yujin

yujinkim59@gmail.com

2021-2022 To National University of Singapore

Community Planner, Department of Transportation

Yujin is currently a Presidential Management Fellow with the Department of Transportation. She is interested in the complex intersection between natural resource management, climate change, and urban development. She was a Fox Fellow (2021-22) at the National University of Singapore, where her research explored the impacts of urban park use on well-being and nature connectedness. Yujin graduated with a Master of Environmental Management from the Yale School of the Environment and holds a B.S. in Environmental Science from the University of Texas at Austin.

Kiselev, Maxim

drmaximkiselev@gmail.com

1994-1995 To Moscow State University

Graduated from the Moscow State University Psychology Department (1982) with Clinical Psychology specialization. Worked in practice and in the academic institutions. In 1989 was enrolled into PhD Program at Yale (Department of Sociology). Fox Fellow in 1994 (fellowship given the field research conducted in the zone affected by the Chernobyl catastrophe fallout. Upon graduation from Yale (PhD,1996) worked as a research coordinator at Yale Medical School AIDS Program. Since the end of 1998 have worked in Moscow in various executive positions.

Koblentz, Liram

liramst@gmail.com

2011-2012 From Tel-Aviv University

Visiting Fellow, Yale University & Senior researcher and Head of the Global Far-right Desk, ICT, Reichman University, Israel

Liram Koblentz-Stenzler (Ph.D.) is a senior researcher & Head of the Global Far-right Extremism Desk at ICT (International Institute for Counter Terrorism) & adjacent lecturer, Reichman University, Israel. Currently she is a visiting researcher at the Sociology department, Yale University. Her new book, Israel's Targeted Killing Policy – Moral and Operative Dilemmas, was published in December 2022 by Palgrave Macmillan press. She is a member of Forum Devorah (NGO), an active network of professional women in an array of fields relating to Israel's national security and foreign policy She holds a Ph.D. from Tel-Aviv University, Political Science Department. Her research deals with democratic states facing terror or guerilla activities with a focus on Israel, United-States and Sri-Lanka. She was awarded a prize for her unique research in the field of terrorism, on behalf of Inbar Fund and the Intelligence Heritage Center, Israel. She was awarded the Fox International Scholarship (2011-2012), on behalf of Yale University USA, the MacMillan Center for International and Area studies.

Kushlin, Andrey

AKushlin@aol.com

1989-1990 From Moscow State University

Co-Chair, EndPandemics

Dr. Andrey Kushlin is an International Development professional with decades of leadership experience in environment and natural resources management. In 1993-2015, he worked at the World Bank on public investment projects and global partnerships in forestry and biodiversity (including the Global Tiger Initiative). In 2016-2018, he was Deputy Director for Forestry Policy and Resources at the UN Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO). In March 2020, he co-founded EndPandemics, a global action alliance aiming to reduce the risks of future pandemics by addressing their root causes. Andrey has a PhD in Environmental Geography from Moscow State University in Moscow, Russia.

Kwan, Henry

henry.kwan@yale.edu

2005-2006 To Cambridge University

Director for Shared Interest Groups @ Yale Alumni Association

Henry Kwan '05 MA, after completing his Fox Fellowship at Cambridge University, returned to Yale and continued his affiliation with the university as a staff member. In his current role at the Yale Alumni Association, he advises and works with various shared interest/identity groups across the alumni community, and looks forward to (re)connecting with fellow Fox Fellows in New Haven!

Lambert, Ana

ana.lambert@aya.yale.edu

2017-2018 To University of Melbourne

PhD researcher, University of Manchester

Ana is a PhD researcher in Human Geography at the University of Manchester. Previously, she worked at the Wildlife Conservation Society as the Latin America Illegal Wildlife Trade Program Manager. Ana holds a Master of Environmental Management from the Yale School of Forestry & Environmental Studies and a B.S. in Environmental Engineering from Instituto Tecnológico y Estudios Superiores del Occidente (ITESO), Mexico. She has extensive academic and working experience in Latin America, the United States, Africa, and Australia, which spans the disciplines of social science, engineering, and wildlife conservation.

Braunschweig, Lila

lila.braunschweig@gmail.com

2019-2020 From Sciences Po

Postdoctoral fellow, Université du Québec à Trois-Rivières

I am a postdoctoral fellow at the Montreal Center for research in ethics (CRÉ), and the Canadian research chair in feminist ethics at the Université du Québec à Trois-Rivière. I hold a PhD in political theory from Sciences Po. My current research interests are in feminist and queer philosophies.

Linde, Charl

linde.charl@gmail.com

2015-2016 From University of Cape Town

Marketing Officer, Royal Agricultural University

Dr Charl Linde completed undergraduate and postgraduate degrees at the University of Cape Town, after which he read for an MSc in African Studies at the University of Oxford. He has held competitive and fully funded research scholarships and fellowships at Stockholm University, Yale University, Ghent University, and the University of Oxford. He was part of the 2019 Transparency International School on Integrity at Mykolas Romeris University in Vilnius, Lithuania. Charl has worked in research, EDI, and communications at universities across the world.

Mankoff, Jeffrey

jeffrey.mankoff@aya.yale.edu

2003-2004 To Moscow State University

Distinguished Research Fellow, National Defense University

Dr. Jeffrey Mankoff is a distinguished Research Fellow in the U.S. National Defense University's Institute for National Strategic Studies and a Non-Resident Senior Associate at the Center for Strategic and International Studies (CSIS). His research focuses on Russian foreign policy, Eurasian geopolitics, and the role of history and memory in international relations. He is the author of the books Empires of Eurasia: How Imperial Legacies Shape International Security (Yale, 2022) and Russian Foreign Policy: The Return of Great Power Politics (Rowman & Littlefield, 2009, 2012). He also writes frequently for Foreign Affairs, War on the Rocks and other outlets. Dr. Mankoff was previously a senior fellow with the Russia and Eurasia Program at CSIS and served as an adviser on U.S.-Russia relations at the U.S. Department of State as a Council on Foreign Relations International Affairs Fellow. From 2008 to 2010, he was associate director of International Security Studies at Yale University and an adjunct fellow at the Council on Foreign Relations. He also held the John M. Olin National Security Fellowship at Harvard University (2006-07) and the Henry Chauncey Fellowship at Yale University (2007-08).

Marquis, Paul

paul.marquis@sciencespo.fr

2015-2016 From Sciences Po Paris

Postdoctoral Researcher, Institute of African Worlds (IMAF, France)

Paul Marquis is a postdoctoral researcher in history at the Institute of African Worlds (Aubervilliers, France). He is a full member of the ERC project MADAF (History of Madness in West Africa), and a research associate at the Sciences Po Center for History, in Paris. In 2021, he defended his PhD on the social history of psychiatry in colonial Algeria (1933-1962). He is currently working on a new project on the influence of the Algerian War of Independence on mental health in Algeria.

Meinderts, Tom

tom.meinderts@yale.edu

2022-2023 From Sciences Po Paris

Tom Meinderts is a Ph.D. candidate at the Center for History at Sciences Po, Paris where he works as a teaching assistant in subjects on contemporary international history and transatlantic relations. His research lies at the intersection of International Relations and political history. His current research focuses on the influence of lobby groups on US foreign policy, particularly concerning international trade and foreign aid.

Mireku, Roland

nanayaw.mireku@aya.yale.edu

2020-2021 From University of Ghana

Roland Mireku Yeboah is a PhD Candidate at the Legon Centre for International Affairs and Diplomacy (LECIAD), University of Ghana. He is a graduate of the Institute of African Studies, and LECIAD both UG, where he was awarded masters degrees in both disciplines. His research interests include Africa's international relations, global Black struggle of the 21st century, and Self-determination and secessionist conflicts in post-independence Africa. In the 2020/2021 academic year, Roland was a Fox Fellow at the Macmillan Centre for International and Area Studies at Yale University. His publications have appeared in the Journal of Pan-African Studies (JPASS), CODESRIA Journal, African Journal of legal Studies (AJLS), Journal of Black Studies, among others.

Mochiah, Eric

ghostphase1@yahoo.com

2019-2020 From University of Ghana

Lecturer (Ghana Communication Technology University)

Dr. Eric Ekobor-Ackah Mochiah is a Development Economist and a Lecturer at Ghana Communication Technology University in Ghana. He has been a PhD Fellow at UNU-WIDER in Helsinki and formerly worked at Institute of Statistical, Social and Economic Research of University of Ghana. Eric has worked on multiple surveys and consulted for and assisted many institutions (World Bank, AGRA, MDF West Africa, EMOS Consultancy, Ernst and Young, etc) which worked directly with local governments on national and transnational projects. Currently his research interest has been on Mobile Money Technology in Ghana and how that is affecting Economic Development and Gender differentials (inequalities).

Moreno Chavez, Jose Alberto

josealberto.morenochavez@gmail.com

2008- 2009 From El Colegio de Mexico

Research Director, DUMA S.C.

Jose Alberto Moreno Chavez has a degree in International Studies from the Universidad Iberoamericana in Mexico City. He obtained a Master and Doctorate Degrees in Contemporary and Modern History at El Colegio de México. He also has a Postdoc in History and Global Studies from the Institute of Latin American Studies of the Freie Universität in Berlin. He was an International Fox Fellow at the MacMillan Center for International Studies at Yale University (2008-09). As a professional he has worked as a guest researcher at some universities and Mexican centers, as well as a consultant for the government and the private sector. His work focuses on the social and cultural impacts of globalization on local communities. Since 2019, he became research director at DUMA, a legal consultancy (based in Mexico City), dedicated to the defense of human and cultural rights; where I have carried out several projects of social impact and social and climatic risk for communities, companies and government.

Morgul, Kerem

kmorgul@hamilton.edu

2010-2011 From Bogazici University

Visiting Assistant Professor, Hamilton College

Kerem Morgul was a Fox International Fellow in the 2010-11 academic year. He earned his Ph.D. in sociology from the University of Wisconsin-Madison and is now a visiting assistant professor of sociology at Hamilton College. Kerem's research focuses on populism, nationalism, and international migration. His works have been published in peer-reviewed journals, including Social Science Research, Qualitative Sociology, Migration Studies, and the American Journal of Cultural Sociology.

Mutungji, Simon

Shakamara@gmail.com

2019-2020 From University of Cape Town

Consultant, Africa Development Bank. Lecturer of Law, Cavendish University

Simon is a banking and finance lawyer currently advising local and international entities on different commercial financings, transactions and litigation matters. He has also been involved in a variety of energy and infrastructure law transactions. He has worked in several jurisdictions including Uganda, South Africa, Seychelles and the United States. He holds a PhD in Banking and Finance law from University of Cape Town with a Fox Fellowship from Yale University, a Masters in Development Finance from Stellenbosch Business School and University of Laval, a Masters in Commercial Law from University of Cape Town and a Bachelor of Laws with honors from Uganda Christian University.

Muyeba, Singumbe

smuyeba@gmail.com

2011-2012 From University of Cape Town

Assistant Professor, Josef Korbel School of International Studies, University of Denver

Singumbe Muyeba, PhD, is an Assistant Professor at the Josef Korbel School of International Studies, University of Denver. His research interests include urbanization, property rights and housing for the urban poor, institutions, foreign aid and forms of capital as well as grand strategies of weak states. He has done research in Zambia, South Africa, Kenya, Angola, and the United States. Professor Muyeba has published a book on globalization and Africa in the 21st century, has a forthcoming book on property rights among the urban poor in African cities, and has published several peer reviewed journal articles in urban studies and development. At Korbel, he teaches economic development, political economy of African development, and the economic inequality section of the 'Great Issues in International Affairs' MA core course. He holds a PhD in Sociology from the University of Cape Town and attended Yale University as a 2011/2012 Fox International Fellow.

Nabil, Ryan

ryan.nabil@outlook.com

2020-2021 To Sciences Po

Research Fellow, Competitive Enterprise Institute

Ryan Nabil is a Research Fellow at the Competitive Enterprise Institute (CEI) in Washington, DC, where he researches US and European artificial intelligence, data privacy, and innovation policy. He also served as a Fox Fellow at Sciences Po Paris, where he conducted research on UK/EU foreign policy toward China and Chinese and Russian approaches to global governance. Before CEI, Ryan completed an MA in global affairs from Yale University, where he served as the Managing Editor of the Yale Journal of International Affairs and Research Fellow at Stanford US-Russia Forum. He has published more than 50 articles, op-eds, and blog posts in outlets including Foreign Affairs, The National Interest, The Diplomat, and The Washington Post. Ryan speaks French, German, Bengali, and intermediate Chinese, Hindi, and Russian.

Neusiedler, Alice

An.bhl@cbs.dk

2022-2023 From Copenhagen Business School

Alice Neusiedler is a Phd candidate at the Department of Management, Politics and Philosophy at Copenhagen Business School. Her research explores participation as an organizational principle. Alice researches ways of organizing for participation in theatre, dance and visual art, processes of meaning production, and political and social implications of those projects. She is especially interested in the relation of the involved actors, social practices within those projects, and more generally in the interrelation of the art field and the social, in social inequalities and potential of social change. Alice holds a master degree in sociology and a master in theatre, film and media studies, both from the University of Vienna. Before joining CBS for her PhD, Alice worked as a research associate at the University of Luxembourg, evaluating the reform of the Luxembourgish law on social aid. Alice is intrigued by qualitative research methods and methodology, feminist and intersectional approaches to research, and practice theory.

Pavanelli, João Marcos Mott

2020-2021 From University of São Paulo

Pavanelli has a Marketing Bachelor from the School of Arts, Sciences, and Humanities from the University of São Paulo, Brazil (EACH-USP) (2012), an MSc. (2016), and a Ph.D. (2022) in Science (Sustainability Graduate Program from EACH-USP), International Fox Fellow at Yale University (2021). Currently, he is focusing his research on institutional change theories and energy transition phenomena.

Rafiq, Samah

sr87@soas.ac.uk

2019-2020 From Jawaharlal Nehru University

Senior Teaching Fellow, SOAS Politics, SOAS, University of London

Samah Rafiq submitted her PhD thesis in international politics at the Centre for International Politics, Organization and Disarmament, Jawaharlal Nehru University, in August 2022. She was a predoctoral visiting fellow at Yale University's MacMillan Center for International and Area Studies for the academic year 2019-20. She works on bordering and mobility control practices – their evolution, their securitization via the introduction of algorithmic technologies and risk management, and their increasing privatization. She has worked on migration policy in India as a researcher at the think tank India Centre for Migration. She is currently working on publishing her PhD research. She is the Convenor for the PG module Risk and Policy Analysis.

Rajasingham, Sanjayan

sanjayan.rajasingham@gmail.com

2020-2021 To National University of Singapore

JSD Candidate, Yale Law School

Sanjayan Rajasingham is a JSD candidate at Yale Law School who works on constitutions in Buddhist-majority contexts. Born in Colombo, Sri Lanka, he read for an LL.B. at the University of Colombo, taught law at the University of Jaffna, and then came to Yale for his LL.M. in 2018. In 2020-2021 he was a Yale Fox Fellow at the Centre for Asian Legal Studies at the National University of Singapore, Singapore. Sanjayan's dissertation looks at how political actors in the Theravada Buddhist-majority states of Sri Lanka and Thailand draw on Buddhism to construct constitutional order. Sanjayan's other research interest is legal pedagogy in deeply divided classrooms. Growing out of his experience teaching in ethnically diverse classrooms in post-war Sri Lanka, he hopes to develop methods of law teaching/learning that create the space for professors and students to explore, understand and transcend deep political differences.

Ren, Yuanyuan

kate.y.ren@gmail.com

2010-2011 From Fudan University

Scholar-in-Residence, Hamilton College

Yuanyuan Ren is a Scholar-in-Residence in the Government Department at Hamilton College, United States. She was a Hauser Postdoctoral Global Fellow at New York University School of Law from 2020 to 2022. She received a Doctor of Juridical Sciences (S.J.D.) from the University of Wisconsin Law School in 2021 and a Ph.D. in International Law from Fudan University Law School in 2012. She worked as an assistant research professor at Polar Research Institute of China (PRIC) in Shanghai from 2012 to 2013. She was a Fox International Fellow at the MacMillan Center for Area and International Studies at Yale University from 2010 to 2011.

Reynaga, Jonathan

jonreynaga@gmail.com

2001-2002 From Cambridge to Yale

Rozo Angel, Valentina

vrozoa@gmail.com

2022-2023 From Universidad de San Andrés

Valentina Rozo-Angel is a graduate in both economics and business administration and holds a master's degree in economics from the Universidad de los Andes, Colombia. She is currently a student at the Universidad de San Andrés, Argentina, in the Master of Data Science program. Valentina has dedicated her career to the application of quantitative methods for the defense and promotion of human rights. She was the first economist to join the litigation team at the NGO Dejusticia, in Colombia, providing scientific evidence to support the cases. Afterwards, she became the Analytics Lead in the Truth Commission in Colombia, leading more than 30 research projects to find patterns of violence that occurred during more than 60 years of conflict. She has also been a Research Officer at the University of Essex and a consultant for the UN Special Rapporteur on Extreme Poverty and Human Rights. In 2021 she was recognized by FemiList 100 for her work in the Global South.

Rungby, Asmus

rungby@hotmail.com

2020-2021 From University of Copenhagen

Postdoctoral Fellow, Yale University Council on Southeast Asian Studies

Asmus Rungby is a Southeast Asianist and Anthropologist focused on issues of Governance, Political Economy and Democracy in Southeast Asia broadly and Malaysian Borneo specifically. His work combines deep ethnographic commitments to urban communities and theoretical analysis grounded in critical theory, political economy and indigenous intellectual traditions. His work covers a variety of issues of politics, environment, and conceptual issues surrounding the interfacing of communities and modes of governance, including tourism, energy management, art advocacy, animal protection, digital citizenship and democracy.

Sakaguchi, Isao

isao.sakaguchi@gakushuin.ac.jp

2000-2001 From University of Tokyo

Professor, Gakushuin University

Isao received his Ph.D from the University of Tokyo in 2004. Since 2005, he has worked for the Faculty of Law at Gakushuin University (Japan). In 2017, Isao was nominated the Pew Marine Fellow when he was spending his sabbatical leave at Center for the Blue Economy at the Middlebury Institute of International Studies at Monterey. Currently, he is serving the Third Fisheries Reform Committee as a committee member to promote fishery policy reform in Japan. He is a specialist of global environmental governance and recently has devoted himself to the research on fisheries governance and seafood sustainability. He approaches sustainable fisheries from top-down public regulation by governments and regional fisheries management organizations (RFMOs) and from bottom-up private sustainability schemes such as MSC and Seafood Watch.

Sanchez Nateras, Gerardo

gsanchez@colmex.mx

2017-2018 From El Colegio de México

Visiting Researcher

Gerardo Sánchez Nateras has a PhD in history from El Colegio de México. He is currently Visiting Researcher at the Centro de Investigación y Docencia Económicas (CIDE), México. He has specialized in the history of the Cold War in Latin America, the History of International Relations and the Hemispheric

Security System. He is author of the monograph La última revolución: la insurrección sandinista y la Guerra Fría interamericana, published by the Mexican Foreign Ministry (SRE). His work has been published in journals like Cold War History, Journal of Latin American Studies (JLAS), and Latin American Research Review (accepted), among others. His doctoral research received the “Charles A. Hale” award in 2020 from the Latin American Studies Association (LASA), the “Genaro Estrada Award” in 2021 from the Mexican Foreign Ministry for best dissertation in foreign policy, and an Honorable Mention by the Pan-American Institute for Geography and History of the Organization of American States (OAS) in 2021.

Sels, Tim Maximilian

tim.sels@yale.edu

2022-2023 From Free University Berlin

Portfolio Manager, BVV

Tim Sels has been conducting doctoral research under the supervision of professor Katja Görlitz in Economics and Business Management at Freie University in Berlin since 2019. His research focuses on applied microeconometrics and he empirically investigates various interdisciplinary research questions with different sub-themes in the fields of management practice, group behavior, competition, education and environment. His studies of Business Management at HWR Berlin, where he graduated with the award for the best student in the academic year, were followed by studies of Economics at FU Berlin, where he specialized in causal data analysis, counterfactual problems and natural experiments. Tim was also awarded the Certificate in International Economics, Area Studies and Comparative Development for his cross-departmental interest. He analyzes educational policies such as class repetitions on the overall educational attainment. Currently, he is working on the impact of group diversity on individual performance and interpersonal behavior at work in competitive situations.

Sigman, Emily

emily.sigman@aya.yale.edu

2019-2020 To University of Ghana

Associate, Environmental Leadership and Training Initiative

Emily Sigman is a unique constellation of bacteria, archaea, fungi, protists and viruses suspended in a matrix of roughly thirty trillion human cells and animated by a mysterious and wonderful process of simultaneous death and renewal. She graduated from Yale College in 2011 with degrees in Philosophy and International studies. After Yale, Emily spent five years as the co-founder of an international housing and alternative living cooperative, where she learned how to grow and forage food, facilitate consensus-based decision making, and talk to goats. Emily enjoyed a rollicking journey through graduate school, where she completed joint degrees in Forestry and Global Affairs, an NSF Graduate Research Fellowship, a Fox International Fellowship (in Ghana) and a Richard U Light Fellowship (in Taiwan). Emily now works for the Yale Environmental Leadership and Training Initiative (ELTI), where she helps support environmental practitioners around the globe as they work to keep the planet habitable for life as we know it.

Singh, Shashank

shashank.singh@yale.edu

2022-2023 From Jawaharlal Nehru University

Shashank Singh is a PhD candidate at the Centre for Historical Studies at Jawaharlal Nehru University. His research focuses on the maintenance of political power in the area of Gwalior in colonial and independent India. The Scindias provide an interesting case study for the researcher. Shashank's thesis explores how these Indian princes maintained their power and legitimacy in changing circumstances from the mid-nineteenth century to the contemporary period. Shashank also explores the results of their power on the local population. How far do the monarchical symbols and values perpetuate the princely influence in the electoral politics of independent India? What were the implications of the retention of political power by a princely family on the welfare of its citizens? In general, Shashank wants to understand how political power was perpetuated across generations in this case, while in other cases (like Baroda) it failed to be transmitted.

Smallenberg, Jory

jory.smallenberg@hotmail.com

2020-2021 From University of British Columbia

Jory Smallenberg is a Master's student in the Department of Political Science at the University of British Columbia. In 2017, Jory was awarded the Governor General's Medal for top academic achievement at UBC in Sociology and French. Motivated by her lifelong concern for transnational cooperation amidst humanitarian crises, Jory co-founded a refugee sponsorship organization with fellow students. She has since presented a TEDx talk on migration issues, volunteered at Moria Refugee Camp in Greece, and participated in numerous global governance fora. As an extension of these experiences, Jory's recent research considers the role of religious organizations in the private sponsorship of refugees to Canada.

Song, Jiaqi

jiaqi.song@yale.edu

2022-2023 From Waseda University

SONG Jiaqi is a Ph.D. candidate at WASEDA University in the field of International Legal Studies. After enrolled in WASEDA, she has been selected for "Support for Pioneering Research Initiated by the Next Generation Program" by the Japan Science and Technology Agency (JST). Jiaqi was awarded the Scholarship for Young Doctoral Students for two consecutive years during her doctoral studies. Prior to WASEDA, Jiaqi received her Master of WTO Law from Shanghai University of International Business and Economics, which is one of the 19 WTO Chairs around the world and the only one institute in China. During the master's period, she won Outstanding Student and Graduate Academic Scholarships. Jiaqi holds Bachelor of Law, and Bachelor of Management Sciences, from East China University of Political Science and law.

Striebinger, Kai

kaistriebinger@gmail.com

2014-2015 From Freie Universität Berlin

Group Leader, Ministry for Work, Social Affairs, and Integration (Berlin)

After completion of a German-French double degree program in political sciences between Sciences Po Paris and the Freie Universität Berlin, Kai Striebinger participated in the Fox Fellowship Program during his PhD studies. He completed his PhD in political science on the role of military governments for civilian transition in West Africa with summa cum laude at Freie Universität Berlin. He proceeded with research on democratization and administrative reform in African countries at the German Development Institute (a think tank for development policy). Since 2017, Kai Striebinger has been working as a civil servant for the Land of Berlin in various capacities. He was responsible for managing the initial response of the administration to the Sustainable Development Goals and is currently working in the budget department of the Ministry for Social Affairs, Work, and Integration on furthering new ways of civil society financing by the government.

Strtak, Jennifer

jennifer.strtak@yale.edu

2021- 2022 To Sciences Po

PhD Candidate

Jennifer Strtak is a PhD candidate in the combined History and Renaissance Studies Program at Yale. In her research, she uses carriages as an investigative tool to explore how transportation shaped built environments, new forms of social interaction, and the regulation of human movement in Paris between 1600-1800.

Sukhanova, Maria

maria.sukhanova@aya.yale.edu

2008-2009 From Moscow State University

Clinical Psychologist, private practice

Maria Sukhanova graduated (MA) from the School of Public Administration of Moscow State Lomonosov University (Russian Federation) in 2008 and joined the Fox International Program at Yale University for 2008-2009. In 2009, she entered the PhD to finish her dissertation about the interaction between policy-administrative and judicial structures in the process of state decision-making (Russian and USA practice). She completed my PhD program without receiving a degree and continued to work in business as the project manager. She entered her first psychology program for professional studies in 2013 and started her journey in psychotherapy, professionally as well as mentally. Now she works with people and does feel satisfied with their life. She is finishing her third psychology program for professional studies in 2023 and becoming a cognitive behavioral therapist, mixing it up with Gestalt therapy to better address the needs of her clients and patients.

Susilo, Fakhridho

fakhridho.susilo@yale.edu

2022-2023 From the Australian National University

Fakhridho Susilo is a PhD Candidate at the Crawford School of Public Policy, the Australian National University. His dissertation examines the politics of public financial resource distribution in decentralized Indonesia, where democratic quality varies widely, and patron-client relations pervade the political realm. Specifically, his research looks at the various ways subnational regimes exert local political control, how that affects actors in the political arena, and how it ultimately shapes the distribution of public resources as instruments of clientelistic reward to voters. Fakhridho completed his Master in Public Policy at the Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy, National University of Singapore and holds a Bachelor of Law from Universitas Indonesia. Prior to commencing his doctoral study, Fakhridho worked for the Indonesian Supreme Audit Board where he undertook audits and evaluation towards the public finance and performance of local government agencies and did research and planning to shape the strategic direction of the Board's auditing policies and programs.

Thimm, Johannes

johannes.thimm@swp-berlin.org

2007-2008 From Freie Universität Berlin

Senior Fellow, German Institute for International and Security Affairs (SWP)

Johannes Thimm is deputy head of the “The Americas” division at the German Institute for International and Security Affairs (Stiftung Wissenschaft und Politik), where he specializes in U.S. foreign policy and transatlantic relations. He received his Masters and Ph.D. in political science from Freie Universität Berlin. He was a Fulbright scholar at the University of Washington in 2000/2001 and a Fox International Fellow at Yale University in 2007/08. His book is called The United States and Multilateral Treaties. A Policy Puzzle (FirstForumPress, Lynne Rienner Publishers). Besides the US and his native Germany, Johannes has lived in Bolivia, Austria, Belgium, Austria, and Estonia. He has two daughters.

Trejo, Abraham

atrejot@gmail.com

2015-2016 From El Colegio de México

Visiting Assistant Professor, CIDE

Abraham Trejo was born and raised in Mexico City. He received PhD in History from El Colegio de Mexico in 2020. His interest in the intersections of race, medicine, and border-making brought him to research and write on the history of XX-century immigration control at the border between the United States and Mexico from a global and transnational perspective. He currently teaches Global History and migration courses at CIDE undergraduate and postgraduate levels.

Vazquez, Antonia

vazquezantonia.va@gmail.com

2019-2020 From Universidad de San Andrés

Antonia Vazquez is a third-year Ph.D. student in Public Policy at The University of Texas at Austin. Her research interests focus on development economics, labor economics, immigration, and social policy evaluation in Latin American countries. Vazquez holds an M.A. in economics from Universidad de San Andres (Argentina) and a B.A. in business administration from UNICEN (Argentina).

Vela, Mary Alexandra

maryavelamcc@hotmail.com

2012-2013 From El Colegio de México

Producer and Assistant Director, McCarthy Films

Mary Alexandra is a Political Scientist from El Colegio de México. She holds a Master’s degree in Public Policy from Cambridge University, a Specialization in Social Sciences and Economics from Notre Dame University and has earned research grants at both Harvard and Yale University. As a Fox Fellow at Yale, her research focused on children and teenagers recruited by drug cartels in Mexico City. She has worked in various organizations including Ednica, an NGO that helps street children across Mexico City; the Federal Chamber of Deputies in Mexico during the LXII Legislature; IFT, the government agency that regulates telecommunications and broadcasting in Mexico; Santander Bank as an assistant director banker for global transactions; as an energy analyst for 5, a Texas based consultancy firm that serves energy markets across the United States and Mexico, and competed for the Mexican Federal Congress during the midterm election in 2021. Currently she is a film producer focused on both commercial and political audiovisual content.

Volz, Ulrich

uv1@soas.ac.uk

2005-2006 From Freie Universität Berlin

Professor of Economics and Director of the Centre for Sustainable Finance, SOAS, University of London

Ulrich Volz is Professor of Economics and Director of the Centre for Sustainable Finance at SOAS, University of London. He is also a Senior Research Fellow at the German Institute of Development and Sustainability (IDOS), Visiting Professor at the London School of Economics and Political Science, and Honorary Professor of Economics at the University of Leipzig. Uli is Academic Director of the University Network for Strengthening Macroeconomic Resilience to Climate and Environmental Change, a director of the Global Research Alliance for Sustainable Finance and Investment, and a member of the CEPR Sustainable Finance Research and Policy Network. He is Co-Chair of the Debt Relief for Green and Inclusive Recovery initiative. He serves on the Sustainable Finance Advisory Committee of the German Federal Government and the advisory panel of the Glasgow Financial Alliance for Net Zero (GFANZ). Uli was Banque de France Chair at EHESS in Paris, and also taught at Peking University, Kobe University, Hertie School of Governance, Freie Universität Berlin, Central University of Finance and Economics, and the Institute of Developing Economies (IDE-JETRO). Uli was part of the UN Inquiry into the Design of a Sustainable Financial System and a member of the NGFS-INSPIRE Study Group on Biodiversity and Financial Stability.

Wiltshire, Nathan

nathan.wiltshire@yale

2022-2023 From Australian National University

Nathan Wiltshire is a PhD scholar at Australian National University’s Centre for Social Research and Methods. His research is inter-disciplinary seeking to develop theories and applied programs relating to empathy. Nathan is particularly interested in widening common conceptions of how empathy works, to be inclusive of diverse cultures and people from all walks of life. This is manifested through the focus of his dissertation, which is titled ‘towards a new theory of empathy and culture’. Prior to undertaking doctoral studies, Nathan spent several years developing experiential ‘immersive’ learning programs aimed at teaching and facilitating empathy between people from India, Australia, and Japan.

Wright, Nataliya Langburd

nlangburd@gmail.com

2014-2015 To University of Cambridge

PhD Candidate, Harvard Business School

I am a PhD candidate in the Strategy Unit at Harvard Business School, and I will begin as an Assistant Professor in the Management Division at Columbia Business School in 2023. My research explores how technology startups from around the world scale and why there are international differences in scaling. I draw inspiration from my prior policy work as a senior consultant and staff economist at the World Bank and White House and startup work as a co-founder, adviser, and board member. I completed my BA at Yale University and MPhil at the University of Cambridge.

Yehezkely, Tal

tal.yehezkely@yale.edu

2022-2023 from Tel-Aviv University

Tal Yehezkely is a PhD student at the Program of Comparative Literature in the School of Cultural Studies at Tel Aviv University. She holds a master's degree in Philosophy (summa cum laude) and is a graduate of the Adi Lautman Interdisciplinary Program for Outstanding Students. Her research focuses on the theoretical structure and poetical expressions of smell in literature, theory and art of the Mediterranean, specifically in Israel/Palestine and Italy, and their political implications. She is a translator of Italian theory and poetry, founder of the Sense of Smell interdisciplinary workshop, head of the Hannah Arendt – Active Thought research group and member of the Hebrew-Arab Political Lexicon group. She is a teacher of philosophy for young students as part of the “Derech Ruach” project, committed to the distribution of humanities in social and geographical peripheries, and co-coordinates the humanities program for Arab and Jewish young musicians of the Polyphony foundation.

MACMILLAN CENTER STAFF

EMILY ERIKSON

emily.erikson@yale.edu

*Joseph C. Fox Director,
MacMillan Center
Yale University*

Emily Erikson is a professor of sociology and the school of management (by courtesy) and the Joseph C. Fox Academic Director of the Fox International Fellowship. She uses comparative historical and computational methods to study economic growth, institutional development, and social coordination in global contexts. Her recent book, Trade and Nation: How Companies and Politics Reshaped Economic Thought (Columbia University Press, 2021) argues that the rise of the company and merchant political marginalization encouraged the development of classical economic thought. She has received numerous book and article awards

JULIA MURAVNIK

julia.muravnik@yale.edu

*Assistant Director for Fellowships and Exchanges
MacMillan Center
Yale University*

Julia Muravnik administers the Fox International Fellowship and many other awards and grants in the MacMillan Center for International & Area Studies at Yale. Julia's background resonates with the initial aims of the Fellowship: born in Russia during the Soviet era, Julia immigrated to the United States shortly after the millennium and has been at Yale since 2005. She speaks English, Russian, and German and enjoys getting to know the Fellows and learning more about the cultures that they represent. Julia gives annual information sessions about the Fellowship at Yale; frequently travels to Fox exchange partners universities; and coordinates efforts to keep alumni in touch, which includes organizing reunions. She welcomes contact from prospective and former Fox International Fellows regarding these and all other matters pertaining to the Fellowship.

GINA AMICO
gina.amico@yale.edu
MacMillan Center Fellowship Coordinator
Yale University

Gina Amico is the Fellowship Coordinator at The Whitney and Betty MacMillan Center for International and Area Studies, where she supports the MacMillan Fellowships and exchanges, including the Fox International Fellowship. Prior to this role, Gina taught English Language Arts and History locally in Connecticut. She has served three terms with AmeriCorps VISTA (Volunteer in Service to America), supporting education nonprofits in New York and Connecticut. She also served as a Primary Literacy Specialist with the Peace Corps in Guyana, South America. She holds a Master of Science in International Development and Service, and a Master of Business Administration. Similar to the Fox Fellowship, Gina conducted her graduate research at educational institutions in New York City, Siena, Italy, and Guayaquil, Ecuador—focusing on sustainable youth program development, volunteer management, and cultivating school-community partnerships.

Alison Fox, widow of Joseph Fox, was a founder of the FIF and she has continued to contribute to the evolution of the program. She has a history of government service following WWII, and has a life-long interest in foreign affairs having lived in both Greece and Brazil. And she just celebrated her 98th birthday!

Lee Fox, daughter of Joseph Fox, is a nurse working in the area of occupational health and safe work practices. She has a life-long interest in public health and has been administering COVID vaccines over the past two years. She is joined by her husband, Peter White, who recently retired as the international tax lawyer at Kodak in Rochester, NY.

Dell Fox, daughter of Joseph Fox, is a jeweler with a store offering both retail and custom jewelry in Santa Fe, NM.

Henry Fox, son of Joseph Fox is a maker/designer, working mostly in wood, who works for Ab Initio, a global software company, based in Lexington MA. He lives and operates his studio in Newburyport MA.

FOX FAMILY MEMBERS

FOX PARTNER INSTITUTION COORDINATORS

LUISA ALEJANDRA GONZÁLEZ BARAJAS
oia@colmex.mx
Director, Office of Academic Exchange and Promotion of Academic Programs
El Colegio de México, Mexico
City, Mexico

Luisa Alejandra González Barajas (she/her) has a BA in International Relations and a master's degree in Asian and African Studies, with a specialty in Southeast Asia, from El Colegio de México (COLMEX). Since 2017, she is in charge of the Academic Exchange Office at COLMEX and from 2021 she runs the International Summer Program (ISP) and coordinates the Office for the Promotion of Academic Programs. Her main functions are: to consolidate the process of internationalization and academic cooperation of COLMEX as well as promote student mobility through international links and the management of national and international agreements; to coordinate the promotion of COLMEX's academic programs and provide the Study Centers with the necessary transversal information to expedite applications to Conacyt's National Graduate System (SNP); to organize the ISP, taught in English and aimed at national and foreign students. Her academic interests include contemporary political history in Myanmar/Burma, Indonesia, and the Philippines, gender, and religion in Southeast Asia.

ANETTE BOOM
ab.eco@cbs.dk
Associate Professor in the Department of Economics and the Head of CBS Ph.D. School
Copenhagen Business School

Anette Boom is an Associate Professor in the Department of Economics at Copenhagen Business School (CBS) and the Head of the CBS PhD School, and is or has been active in PhD teaching, PhD supervision and other PhD related functions. Before she joined CBS in 2005, she had a position equivalent to an Assistant Professorship at the Free University of Berlin in Germany, had a couple of postdocs at the Free University and at the Science Center (WZB) in Berlin and did her PhD at the University of Konstanz in Germany. Her research is in Industrial Organization and lately mainly in the electricity market.

GALIA NETZER ERLICHMEN

galiane@tauex.tau.ac.il Internationalization at Home Coordinator, Lowy International School
Tel-Aviv University

Galia Netzer Erlichmen is the Internationalization at Home Coordinator at the Lowy International School at TAU where she develops and implements global opportunities to promote the international experiences on campus. Galia is an energetic worker, constantly aiming to bring people together and thus increasing communication and connection between colleagues. Galias' aim is to increase interest and participation of different sectors on campus in International opportunities while exposing the benefits of the opportunities, as managed to successfully do for the students exchange programs in the past year. Galia gives annual information sessions about the exchange programs and coordinates efforts to keep alumni engaged in local campus projects. Galia holds a Master's degree in Anthropology and a Bachelor's degree in psychology and criminology and is a constant learner of daily improvement skills for making processes more efficient.

ECE TOKER GÜNAY

ece.gunay@boun.edu.tr
Director, Office of International Relations
Bogaziçi University, Istanbul, Turkey

Ece attended Bogaziçi University, where she earned her B.A. in Management. After completing her studies, she set out for Hong Kong for one year. She later joined Molex Inc., where she had the opportunity to work with various institutions all over the world. Ece joined the Bogaziçi International Office as an Assistant Coordinator in January 2009. She is currently serving as Director for the International Office. She is also the person you'll want to see for any help with managing new agreements and support for international delegations visiting Bogaziçi University, where she connects visitors with their counterparts at the University and promotes dialogue on issues of common interest. Ece is a very strong believer in intercultural exchange, as she believes it to be the most influential tool for growing respect for humanity and understanding for the whole globe.

LONE PETERSEN

lp.research@cbs.dk
Head of Ph.D. Support
Copenhagen Business School

Lone Hovn Petersen is head of the PhD Support at Copenhagen Business School (CBS), Denmark, since 2014. Before that she held another position which involved supporting the then existing PhD schools and the PhD students in several departments. She specializes in management support, data collection and reporting, PhD contracts and budget management. Lone holds a Diploma of Leadership with focus on employee development, using her skills to develop the potential of each employee in order to create a successful team that supports the PhD area and management at CBS best. In her free time, Lone Hovn Petersen likes to spend time with her family and in the great outdoors, riding mountain bike trails and hiking.

GUESTS

PETER SALOVEYJULIA ADAMS*LARISA SATARA*ANNE KELLETT*NANCY RUTHER*HAYNIE WHEELER*STEVEN WILKINSON*RICHARD SOSA

NOTES

Yale MACMILLAN CENTER
Fox International Fellowship

34 Hillhouse Avenue
New Haven, Connecticut 06511

foxfellowship.yale.edu

 foxfellowshipyale

 yalefoxes

 foxfellowship