

JESSICA LEPLER

Assistant Professor of History, University of New Hampshire

THE MANY PANICS OF 1837: People, Politics, and the Creation of a Transatlantic Financial Crisis

Thursday, April 16, 2015 at 4:30pm
 Rosenkranz Hall, 115 Prospect Street, Room 241
 Please see ycri.yale.edu for more information.

This lecture is sponsored by the Yale Center for the Study of Representative Institutions at the MacMillan Center, and made possible in part through partnership with the Jack Miller Center and the support of a grant from the John Templeton Foundation.