Steps Toward International Climate Governance

William Nordhaus
Sterling Professor of Economics and Professor of Forestry and Environmental Studies

Professor Nordhaus's major work focuses on the economics of climate change, developing models that integrated the science, economics, and policies necessary to slow warming. He was awarded the Nobel Prize in Economic Sciences in 2018 “for integrating climate change into long-run macroeconomic analysis.”

DISCUSSANTS:

Scott Barrett
Lenfest-Earth Institute
Professor of Natural Resource Economics, Columbia University

Pinclopi Goldberg
Elihu Professor of Economics, Yale University, and Chief Economist of the World Bank Group

MODERATOR:

Judith Chevalier
William S. Beinecke Professor of Finance and Economics, Yale School of Management

April 1 at 4:30 PM
Henry R. Luce Hall Auditorium, 34 Hillhouse Avenue

Cosponsored by the American Academy of Arts & Sciences, the Whitney and Betty MacMillan Center for International Area Studies at Yale, and the Center for the Study of American Politics.